Quarterly Commentary

In 2022 European stock markets had a return of -12.90% (Stoxx Europe 600 index) compared to the previous year. The main reasons were macroeconomic and geopolitical. In particular, the combination of high inflation, rapid interest rate increases by central banks and the war in Ukraine led to a fall in stock markets. In Q4 2022, the European stock markets recorded a significant recovery due to the expectation that inflation peaked in October. Corporate results were all quarters better than expectations, but were less impactful than macro & geopolitical. The Pan-European fund recorded a return of -16.11%. The new benchmark Stoxx Europe 50 returned -4.36%.

Key risks

The Mutual Fund is subject to Investment risks and Other associated risks from the techniques and securities it uses to achieve its objective. The table on the right explains how these risks relate to each other and the Outcomes to the Unitholder that could affect an investment in the Mutual Fund.

Investors should also read Risk Descriptions in the Prospectus for a full description of each risk.

Investment risks

Risks from the Sub-Fund's techniques and securities

Market	Liquidity	Derivatives (Leverage)	Concentration
The fund is subject to normal market fluctuations and the risks associated with investing in securities markets. The value of your investment and the income from it may be affected by general economic and political factors as well as industry or company specific factors.	The fund operates in a market characterized by low trade volumes and securities that may become illiquid. This results in a higher risk of losses due to reduced trading speed/efficiency and sharper price fluctuations.	The derivatives market introduces significant levels of complexity, increasing the probability of adverse gains or losses to the fund that holds derivatives. The higher sensitivity to price movements of the underlying asset can asymmetrically affect the price of a derivative that is linked to it.	Mutual funds with concentrated investment policy may be exposed to higher risk, higher volatility and lower liquidity from mutual funds with less concentrated portfolio.
